Abstract

As a partnership with a 21st Century Community Learning Centers grantee and the Center for Urban and Multicultural Education (CUME) within the IU School of Education at Indianapolis, the IMPACT project will showcase both research and evaluation reports and student work from the local Indianapolis schools within the IMPACT After-School Programs. The partnership has allowed both researchers and community members to collaborate around grant writing, methods and outcomes for program evaluation, and recommendations for program improvement that directly affect the local programs and elementary school students involved.
